We are very excited to announce the release of the 2014 NCRC Annual Report!

Our commitments to collaboration and partnerships, to state of the art research and lab space, and to supporting complex research programs build on the University of Michigan’s ability to attract the finest and most innovative researchers, programs, and private companies in the world, and make possible advances in research that can translate valuable research discoveries into better human health. Whether you are a faculty member, researcher, or business employee, a student or a member of the Ann Arbor community, we invite you to be a part of NCRC’s exciting growth.
