NCRC Community News & Announcements

Cao Yu Art Exhibition

Cao Yu: Pioneer of Modern Chinese Drama
January 15 through March 15, 2013
Location: Connections Gallery, Building 18

Modern drama in China is known as “spoken drama” to distinguish it from the traditional Chinese song-dance theatre. Cao Yu is recognized as the foremost figure in its development. Often compared to Shakespeare, Ibsen, Chekhov and O’Neill, Cao Yu is credited with aiding this non-indigenous type of drama reaching a degree of maturity in both form and audience reception in the mid-1930s.

Read Story

Facilities

- NCRC Administration is pleased to announce the opening of "Flavors", a new Opus One cafeteria, on Tuesday, January 15 at 7:30am. The cafeteria is located in Building 18 on the ground floor near the main entrance lobby.

Please note that cafeteria seating will be provided within the Flavors cafeteria area. The “football” dining room seating area will be available on days with no scheduled events which will be posted.

We look forward to seeing you at Flavors!

- Building 10, 1st Floor: Biointerfaces Collaboration Space - Construction completed

Events

- January 15 - Flavors Cafeteria Opening
- January 15 - Cao Yu: Pioneer of Modern Chinese Drama
- January 16 - James Rotz: Kibbutz of Desire
- January 18 - MLibrary@NCRC: Open House for U-M 3D Lab
- January 29 - NCRC Site Orientation
- January 31 - NCRC Site Orientation

Announcements

- UMHS & NCRC Wireless Network Info
- Greetings from Sgt. Pat Alessi
- Earn $25 by volunteering to help Lycera’s research team find new treatments for autoimmune diseases
- How do I prevent the flu this season?

Reminders

NCRC Feedback
Questions or comments? Please email: ncrcfeedback@umich.edu
- NCRC has officially joined the social media network! North Campus Research Complex Facebook
- NCRC Safety Guidance Manual - Effective 12/10
- NCRC Guidelines for Space Heaters